Humankind Game Review

Humankind video game is a historical strategy game with combines different eras and cultures. The game has been compared with the previous game civilization or civ 6 scenarios.

Humankind can be compared to civilization or civ 6 narrators because both have the element of wars, civilization and culture. but both the games approach similar themes in their way. So the civ 6 scenario is different from humankind. You lead a life of a wanderer, nomadic in a neolithic area. In Humankind you are making your nation with the amalgamation of many cultures and diversities. Each culture gives its essence and makes it unity in diversity kind of a place. Most of the things would feel pretty similar to civilization.

Humankind is a result of massive history, you face the events that happened in history and changes that happen throughout with moral decisions and technological changes.

The game was formally announced in 2019 but was released on 17 august 2021. The game was released on Microsoft Windows, macOS and Stadia. Humankind has been the fourth bestselling video game of 2021 in the US.

Humankind-characters

Humankind storyline

The humankind storyline is the history you must have read in your history books and schools. In the Neolithic period, you are a hunter, that is what people did in that era or civilization. You will be building districts, new cities, infrastructure, making boundaries of your territory. You will try to keep the people of our city happy. Districts particularly those which help generate food. Humankind started with aesthete culture.

Here is the list of the cultures –

- Aesthete: Cultures that focuses on Influence and diplomacy.
- Agrarian: Cultures that focuses on Food and Population growth.
- Builder: Cultures that focus on the Industry and District constructions.
- Expansionist: Cultures that focus on the Territory expansions.
- Merchant: Cultures that focus on Money and Trade.
- Militarist: Cultures that focus on Unit and War.
- Scientist: Cultures that focus on Science and Technology.

You explore from one era to another, unlike other strategy games like civ 6. you earn fame points and the empire with the most Fame points wins the game. Fame is acquired in 3 ways –

- eras traits,

- discovering and building wonders
- completing the deeds

you can acquire these stars in seven ways. The leader avatar goes through the evolution in every era and culture by customizing the avatar. The empire cannot be made without any battlefield and armies. Battles are done and you have to win by killing the enemies. As such there are no humankind characters or humankind storyline but you evolve as you go from one era to another. Your costumes and features and everything does change. Though there is not a storyline or narrative.

Humankind gameplay

You are crafting your civilization. You enter each area and are given the option to select one of the cultures of the world. It should not be the Neolithic era. Also, there is another 6 era each have distinct 10 cultures to pick from. Each has its district and its legacy traits. The era represents your progress in the game. Every era has its special resources or things. There are total 7 eras-

- Neolithic Era
- Ancient Era
- Classical Era
- Medieval Era
- Early Modern Era
- Industrial Era
- Contemporary Era

Where you came from is never forgotten. You move to the eras very quickly. You need to acquire 21 era stars. The player has to gain 3 era stars. You are progressing through eras and technology. To go from era to era, you need to complete certain missions or tasks to get to the next era and the next. As you complete an era and the tasks in that era you get fame. Fame is the ultimate factor in deciding where you reach into the next era. Beyond stars, there are other things also. You discover as you move around the tactical map. There are 60 playable cultures. The cultures are linked to their cultural affinities in humankind gameplay. The English are agrarian and Romans are expansion which is already there in the kind of cultures. The culture has its distinctive emblematic districts and emblematic units and also legacy traits.

Humankind: 11-Minute Gameplay Walkthrough

Humankind walkthrough

As you go you encounter armies, as you go forward you will see the acquired battlefield on the tactical map. Every battle will happen on the tactical map. The tactical approach is used by humankind. The important thing in humankind is not that you have to complete the mission and go to the next era. It is about the journey which you take on and then you get fame in return. Every RTS tactical battle you win you get fame. There is an actual battlefield brew that works i.e battles you have to fight and you unlock your special abilities and armies of two pc.

So in humankind walkthrough – you build your civilization, customize your humankind character, tactical creations to fight the battles. The tactical creations map would further unfold the commanding tent, side battles etc. if the enemy is killed the flag is put down. To win either you will kill all the enemies or capture the defender's flag.

Humankind mods

There are no as such humankind mods. But there are battle mechanics, once you encounter an enemy it is marked on the world map. The battles can be on land or water etc but the battle will only happen on the tactical creations on the map. But the air battle can be done without rtc tactical. But they are not that powerful as in other battles.

Once the battle begins, the enemy can attack you from many sides the army and the alternative armies join the battlefield.

The battles are not easy as you can get an enemy from multiple directions and the enemy has not just one but many other alternative armies. The battles can be continued for many turns.

Humankind graphics

HUMANKIND | 6 WAYS THE FINAL ERAS CHANGE EVERYTHING

Humankind final verdict

Humankind is a brilliant game but there has been a lot of comparisons with civilization. The civ 6 narrator had a different way of putting the storyline. Unlike other strategy games, it is based on where there is one culture and one civilization. Humankind offers you new culture as you enter any one of the 6 eras. The choices player make lead to their new societies and how you govern your empire is your decision. You might get bored if you are someone who likes to engage with characters and their back story. There is no humankind charcters backstory for you. Yes, there is adventure and battles to win and lots of enemies. Overall the agme is great with its charm not like previous strategy games.
